

ITG 2007 MAY 29 – JUNE 2, 2007

UNIVERSITY OF Massachusetts Amherst

Host Eric Berlin and the faculty and staff of the University of Massachusetts Amherst are delighted to invite you to attend the 2007 ITG Conference!

Located in Hampshire County, The University of Massachusetts is in the heart of the picturesque Pioneer Valley of the Connecticut River basin. Rolling farmland, dense woodland and the foothills of the eastern Berkshires combine to make this one of the most beautiful areas in New England. In addition to the beauty of the physical environment, the Pioneer Valley represents social and cultural diversity at its best. The New York Times called Amherst one of the nation's "Ten Best College Towns."

Also in Hampshire County is the city of Northampton, home of the Academy of Music (the oldest continuously operated theatre in America), the Smith College Museum and botanical gardens, an array of fine restaurants and galleries, festivals, and fairs. A wealth of sightseeing within easy driving distance are the Berkshires, with Tanglewood, Williamstown, Lenox, and Stockbridge; the museums and homes of historic Old Deerfield; Springfield and the Basketball Hall of Fame, and Old Sturbridge Village.

The campus is within 50 miles of Bradley International Airport between Springfield, MA, and Hartford, CT, and less than 100 miles from Logan International Airport and the cultural Mecca of Boston, MA. Merely 175 miles from New York City, Amherst is an easy drive from all of New England and the Northeast. Lodging can be found in national hotel chains as well as numerous charming Bed & Breakfasts within only a few miles of the campus!
